

Anti-disinformation specialist Intercept 9500 weaves own web of contacts

Through its Alliance 9500, the Israeli specialist in the fight against disinformation brought on board several cyber specialists, such as Cstrategy and BrandShield, and signed a strategic partnership with German forensics expert mh Service.

Issue dated 14/07/2022 Reading time 2 minutes

The Israeli open source intelligence (OSINT) provider Majestic Technologies plans to be in Singapore to present its big data analytics platform Rakia at the ISS World Asia intelligence trade fair from 6 to 8 September. Majestic, created by Omri Raiter, the founder of cyber infiltration expert Senpai Technologies, which is now a part of Intellexa (IO, 28/05/19), has been building its global presence in recent months. It was already present for ISS Europe (IO, 28/04/22) and a company called Rakia Group will present its OSINT tools Majestic5 and the Rakia platform at the North American ISS. Majestic's technologies form part of the technological OSINT combinations embedded by Intercept 9500, an Israeli firm specialised in fighting online influence campaigns.

Founded by Itai Yonat, Intercept 9500 has also working on ramping up sales and locked in a strategic partnership with German forensics specialist mh Service to distribute its services in Europe.

An alliance of cyber experts

In addition to its partnership with mh Service, Intercept 9500 has reached out to several other companies to be able to offer its clients a broader set of services. Under the banner of its Alliance 9500, it has brought together the cybersecurity tools of two Israeli firms, Cstrategy and BrandShield. For physical security the Alliance relies on the expertise of the Israeli expert MAX Security while Intercept 9500 and Persona Digital provide their OSINT skills and ability to detect abnormal behaviour and influence campaigns online. Yonat's other company, R-Variations, is also part of the consortium. Yonat, who has a particularly strong presence in Africa, specialises in building capacity to combat online influence at a state level.

© Copyright Intelligence Online.

Pasted from <https://www.intelligenceonline.com/surveillance--interception/2022/07/14/anti-disinformation-specialist-intercept-9500-weaves-own-web-of-contacts,109799431-art?cxt=PUB&utm_source=INT&utm_medium=email&utm_campaign=AUTO_EDIT_SOM&did=109619000>